The Cha Vote: Now Turn-out, Still Hope

CHA residents from around the city Public Housing in Chicago, and in the Mid South communities where there are the most concentrated, voted for building and development presidents and representatives on December 12th. However, just as a reflection of the last election in Chicago the voter turn out was low. For instance, the Robert Taylor Homes on State Street has 1,999 residents eligible to vote and under 200 did.

Residents contacted by South Street Journal said the major problem was that resident did not know about the election. Barbara Barksdale of Robert Taylor Homes "B" said she did not vote because she was not aware of an election. Agreeing with her was Charles Cosmo Taylor and he said he only found out about the election after he voted. A vote for McDonald was that he would have cast for the outgoing president Ethel Washington, a resident leader who lead the protest against the sweeps. She lost by two votes to newly elected President William Dornitr, who is in favor of the CHA sweeps.

Dorothy J. Olivier, President Elect of Stateway Gardens, (won by one vote against president Charles Cosby) said, "I have heard comments about the low turn-out of voters. Now that the school of fear has ended they will vote."

Following is a partial list of some of the organizations that are expected to submit proposals in the scope of their activities. Many of these organizations expressed interest in collaborating with the community.

The call for monetary participation was answered with enthusiasm as Jackson described the strategic position that a Research department of this nature would create Education: the two-fold goal of this objective involves members as well as the public.

Jackson said numbers plus factual information equals leverage for putting comprehensive plan on papering, maintenance, cleaning, carpentry.

Moves To Expand Carbon Monoxide Detector Ordinance

Day Care Centers, Nursing Homes and Hospitals To Be Included

Chicago City Clerk Jim Laski introduced an amendment to his landmark Carbon Monoxide Detector Ordinance at the City Council meeting on December 13, 1995 that will require Chicago's 765 day care centers, 152 nursing homes and 51 hospitals to install detectors.

"This amendment just makes sense," said Laski, recalling CO poisonings that have been taking home and a daycare center within the past year. "It is a medical fact that the children, the elderly and the unborn are at the high risk of CO poisoning. These are places where many of these groups sleep, eat and occasionally reside.

Calling the amendment a "logical next step," Laski added that he will advance his research into ways to protect individuals from toxic levels of CO in the workplace. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, the number of people potentially exposed to CO in the workplace environment is greater than any other physical or chemical agent. Over 97,600,000 people have at least one occupational exposure at high levels of CO.

Woodlawn Groups Struggle To Fight "ot" Demolition Still On

Empowerment Zone Crunch Time

Seasons Greetings, well, hope you all got your Empowerment Zone applications into the city by the deadline, on December 18. The Black Metropolis Convention & Tourism (BMCTC), with the help of some dedicated people, was able to complete the complicated RFP application process and turned in a compressive, multi-dimensional proposal to Restore Bronzeville. Thanks to Paula Robinson, Bonnie Care, Patrick Bailey, Raynard Hall, Denise Cordier, RoMona Westbrook, Leslie Williams, Anthony Daniels, Marge Brooks, Theresa O’Neal and other dedicated professional technicians working collaboratively, BMCTC completed the EZ-RFP proposal in an efficient and professional manner. Our proposal focuses on the “Restoring Bronzeville Campaign” and identifies specific strategies to develop the Mid-South community as a international heritage tourism destination. BMCTC continues to collaborate with other leaders in the Cultural Tourism industry to promote Chicago as a premiere destination for heritage tourism. Most recently, BMCTC met with the Congress on Health, Law and Economics to begin developing an exciting itinerary for their convention to take place in Chicago, July/August 1996. The BMCTC was founded to draw attention to the historically significant southside of Chicago, affectionately known as “Bronzeville.” In a short period of time, the BMCTC has made great strides in both the revitalization of attitudes regarding Bronzeville and in stimulating an economic resurgence in the area based on self reliance and investment. An important tool in this empowerment process is tourism, with tourism

60 Xmas Carolers Hit Motorola Over City Contracts, Poverty Wages

Approximately 60 members of unions and community organizations took over Motorola headquarters Wednesday, singing Christmas carols like "We Wish You A Living Wage" to protest poverty wages at subcontractors Mold-Tech Plastics. Motorola, which received $10 million in city contracts in 1994, would be covered under an ordinance being proposed by the Chicago Jobs and Living Wage Campaign. The ordinance would require city (sub)contractors to pay a living wage of $7.60. Mold-Tech workers earn at or near $4.25. The protest took place on December 13, joined by ACORN, a community group of low-and moderate-income families. Teamsters Local 740, representing 19,500 members, SEIU Local 73, representing 23,000 workers statewide. SLIU Local 880, representing more than 10,000 home health care workers. Teamsters Local 705, representing more than 15,000 members, UFCW Local 881 with 40,000 workers statewide including Jewel Osco, Chicago Coalition for the Homeless, representing Chicago's 60,000 homeless. Organization of the North East, representing the Up-town Edgewater areas. Various other labor, religious and community groups. "Motorola has gotten millions of our tax dollars from the city of Chicago," said Ted Thomas from Chicago ACORN. "And as they're making their profits they turn around and subcontract the job to Mold-Tech that says its workers poverty wages!" The demonstration was part of the Jobs and Living Wage Campaign which will be introducing a city ordinance in early 1996 that would require subsidy and contract recipients to bring workers to a wage sufficient to bring a family of four above the federal poverty line, currently $15,150 or $7.60 per hour. The ordinance would also promote the hiring of low-and moderate-income jobseekers through the use of community based hiring halls. Currently, well over half of Chicago Aldermen have expressed their support for the principles of the ordinance including Edward Burke, Percy Giles, Ricardo Munoz, and Richard Moll. Mid-South Aldermen includes Alderman Tom Prockwinkle (4), Alderman Dorothy Tillman (5), Madeline Halbeek (2) and Barbara Holt (5). Tillman informed South Street Journal that, "I support the concept that all workers should have fair wages." However, Tillman stated she could not totally support the ordinance until it is presented to council for review from committee.

Since June ACORN has also organized protests at Whole Foods and Home Depot companies that benefitted from more than $10 million in aid, but which do not pay a living wage.

Mid-South Schools

Math Scores, State lowest:

Adds to What?

The three lowest math scores at the eighth grade level in Chicagoland belong to three schools in the Mid South communities. Farrer, 51st and State has a score of 143 and State has a score of 142. The State of Illinois average is 246. I contacted the administrations of the three schools to see what actions— if any—were being taken to raise the scores of their students.

Not one returned my phone calls. At Farrer, principal William Auksi was in his office one of the times I called, but told the clerk to tell me he was busy. He must believe someone called, but told the clerk to tell me he was in his office one of the times I called. He was in his office one of the times I called at 3:15 the second time. Can asthma be prevented? No, but the good news is that precautions can be taken to reduce the number of attacks. Remember knowledge is the key. What can we do?

- Find a doctor that you like and who can relate to you. A doctor who takes time or has a nurse who can take time to explain your illness to you.
- Find out all that you can about you and your child's condition.
- Make regular appointments and then keep them.
- If you believe your asthma is caused by an allergy, ask your Doctor to refer you for allergy testing to some common causes such as dust, mold, pet hair or pollen.

McIntyre says "The reality at the Clerk's office is 'virtual' Ghost Payrollers"

Judith McIntyre, candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook county, recently called on the Cook County Board of Commissioners to investigate what she believes is a misuse and abuse of the powers of the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court by the incumbent, Aurelia Puchienksi.

The incumbent, Circuit Court Clerk, during the past few years, has quietly implemented a policy that is permitted to work, not at the offices of the Circuit Court, but out of the comfort of their homes. "Under this secret flex home program, certain employees—and we believe there could be dozens—are permitted to work, not at the offices of the Circuit Court, but out of the comfort of their homes."

Some of the employees, many of whom work on the 10th floor, who have been permitted to participate in this program include Georgina Borthox, an assistant; Cheryl Nanton, Secretary; Cathy Sutton, Child support: Laetitia Alvis, former baby-sitter to the incumbent's children, personal department, had a baby 2 years ago; and Tino Kearie, labor relations department.

"What I believe we see here," McIntyre said, "is a policy where the flex home program is only the tip of the iceberg." McIntyre declared. "These practices cry out for the full attention of the County Board to examine why some employees are given this privilege and while other, more deserving but less politically connected, are denied the same privilege."

McIntyre also said, "We need to scrutinize how the incumbent is using this program to reward patronage workers instead of on county business."

"The Clerk's misuse and abuse of this program is only the tip of the iceberg," McIntyre said. "We need to scrutinize how the incumbent is using this program to reward patronage workers instead of county business."

"The clerk office maintain all files and records, but out of the comfort of their homes. This is the 'virtual' ghost payrollers."

"These practices cry out for the full attention of the County Board to examine why some employees are given this privilege and while other, more deserving but less politically connected, are denied the same privilege," McIntyre declared.

"Using this program in such a manner demonstrates in the clearest way why the incumbent should be retired from office come March 19, 1996," she said. McIntyre concluded that the misuse of the flex home program could be illegal and that the use of this program to reward patronage workers while denying it to other county employees is clearly discriminatory.

The office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook is one of the more important offices in county government according to Attorney Karen Brazil-Breashears, SSU writer and candidate for Cook County Circuit Court.

Brazil-Breashears stated the clerk office has a staff of 2,073 employees, and a budget of $78 million.

"The clerk office maintain all files and documents related to circuit court proceedings including criminal, divorce, personal injury and will contests " explained Brazil-Breashears. "The battle for the position is for jobs and money. It is not a representative position as a spokesperson for a ward or a majority black vote. What do you take us for? You are sitting in a legislative body where you are the minority but you want us to believe that you will serve us better going to a legislative body where you may be a minority?"

"It is not Free. If you can't speak out about the fuel crisis. Little Richie Daley, how can we trust you to take on Newt Gingrich, the fundamental right wing and a majority black vote? What do you take us for? You are sitting in a legislative body where you are the minority but you want us to believe that you will serve us better going to a legislative body where you may be a minority?"

"I see. I understand. Blacks and Hispanics are so-called minorities. So you will fight Newt Gingrich better as a minority. You do not understand how to fight Daley as a Majority. They say white women have the most gains in the minority melting pot. In this case, Right On for Aldcrwoman Helen Schiller, at least your ward has representation to go with its taxation. Finally, no Alderman in the 7th Congressional District is worthy of election to Congress."

This is Eddie Read. Eddie Read can be heard on WVOX 1450.

McIntyre says "The reality at the Clerk's office is 'virtual' Ghost Payrollers"
Elections are no longer choking our freedom, we will unite. And every election from now on, Stateway Gardens will set the standard on the number of voters who come out and cast votes. No longer will we be called the poorest community in the nation.

The low turn out was reflected by residents not caring about the election. Stateway Gardens residents stated the CHA made the election known by mail with the residents rent payment notices. Petitions applications were also mail to the tenants as well.

The process has been without problems. The first problem encountered was in hiring a contractor to carry out the election. Taking care of this, was the original contractor selected in a bid process on July 1, 1995, however, they have since been replaced by Citizens Information Services. These were problems reported from the authority side; such as the petitions and the boundaries of specific candidates, according to Inge Fry lung of tactics. At the time the petition went out the boundaries had not been set which had the effect of slowing down the petition process since candidates need to know the places that were to proper collect signatures. There were also concerns of who had the right to run for election.

According to HUD regulations, only residents must have a resident for at least 6 months prior to the election, be current in rent and not be charged with a felony involving violence against other resident and not work for CHA if seeking a Local Advisory Council (LAC) president slot. The last requirement started a storm of controversy because HUD regulations said that the resident can only vote in a policy making position with the authority. One long time resident activist, Willie Barnett was challenged on this issue. The challenge was later dropped.

Washington and Olivier both advisor board members of South Street Journal

The many were surprise Washington lost, saying, "I am sorry I lost and I want my supporters to rejoice with me." She added that, "But you can be sure that things were not right with this election." Washington stated that some buildings ran out of voting material, the election day change three times, there was not good oversight over the whole election system.

And many votes just did not add up right. "Many things happen that shouldn't," and I am going to challenge CHA on them. CHA has not been rid of me addressing the issues and concerns of the people.

Olivier was overcome with watching the residents come out and cast their votes for a change she said, "I saw the old, the workers, the young adults, the handicapped and the double fight their way through the snow and cold to show their undying support for a change that was years overdue."

Olivier this day will go in history as the day the residents who did vote were open. The schakles of fear were cast aside, and the will of the people will be heard for those who voted and those who did not.

"At the end of the voting day, an enormous sense of relief swept over Stateway Gardens. And for the first time in over 15 years, a sense of relief and peace emanated throughout our home," said Olivier.

"I want to say thank you all who supported me in this endeavor. I will let God be my guide as I execute the duties and responsibilities of my office. I will work with all of the residents to enhance the overall living standards in our home."
Rep. Lou Jones and Burke: Blasting Republican Methods, Disgusting Tactics Hurt Children

State Representative Lou Jones (D-5) blasted Republicans for "playing with the children of Illinois lives." A "Conference Committee Report" heard before the Illinois House Judiciary Committee (Criminal Law) combined several controversial issues, including the Child Sex Offender Community Notification Law, in a bill that will allow for the creation of a fund to help owners of gas stations clean up their Leaking Underground Storage Tanks. This bill is considered by many as a tax on consumers since it will raise price of gasoline, and most Democrats have been opposed to it.

Republicans fearing none of the bills, individually, would survival floor debate on their merits and/or possible unconstitutionality, combined them into one bill to ensure their passage. When the legislature considers several combined bills called Conference Reports, the rules indicate that they must be about the same subject. These clearly are not. The 32 issues on this bill were increased penalties for possession of marijuana, automatic transfers to adult court for juveniles 13 years old, sentences, laws that would allow "eavesdropping on employees, charging "community care," for incarceration and allowing hearsay evidence in certain cases.

The people of the State of Illinois will think this legislature is sick," said Representative Jones. "To include a good bill such as the Notification Law, which is a bill designed to protect our children, in a bill about underground storage tanks is a joke," she continued. "Underground storage tanks don't have a damn thing to do with hurting children. There are children who are being murdered in Illinois. This is a very serious matter. We have to think about what has happened here. This bill wasn't separated from the rest.

"The worst part is that now we must vote for this bill because not to do so will hurt the children. I am one of those who is against the Leaking Underground Storage Tank bill. Never in my ten years as a legislator have I seen anything so insurmountable. The Republicans should be ashamed for playing games with these kinds of games with the people of the State," said Representative Jones.

State Representative Dan Burke blasted Republican methods used to pass special legislation. The Republican-backed legislation to create a fund for gas station owners to clean up underground leaking storage tanks (aka LUST Fund). This legislation required an increase in fees to consumers, therefore, some Democratic members fought against its passage not wanting to be solely charged with passing a "tax increase." Republicans lumped this bill together with other controversial, and related issues, and presented it as the full House in a Conference Committee Report, making it virtually impossible for most Democrats to vote for it.

"This is a blatant effort to force us to choose between taking care of our children and the public or protect residents from tax hikes," said Rep. Burke. "Certainly we support these types of initiatives," said Representative Burke. "But to place them together with creating a fund for gas station owners is ludicrous and unconscionable," Burke continued.

"The Republicans have rank to new lows in attempts to control the residents of the state of Illinois by practicing questionable methods in passing legislation," Representative Burke concluded.

State Senator Alice J. Palmer Announces Run For Re-election

Woodlawn -- In a press conference, Illinois State Senator Alice J. Palmer announced her campaign for reelection to a second term. A crowd of one hundred supporters gathered at 1528 East 63d street to urge Sen. Palmer to seek re-election to her current office. Immediately following the press conference, the Senator departed Chicago for Springfield to file her petitions to officially join the race.

Key Strategist and Field Organizer for the Jesse Jackson, Jr. Campaign, Marc Allen said: "We can't afford to lose our most experienced legislators who know how to fight and understand the tricks of the trade. During the press conference, Allen volunteered to begin a field operation to re-elect Sen. Palmer which includes seeking out the youth of the 63rd district in churches, colleges and community organizations to continue to take care of the people."

State Representative Lou Jones also spoke today to encourage Sen. Palmer to make her bid for reelection to the state legislature. Recognizing the Senator's years of service to her district, Rep. Jones pledges her full support to the campaign.

Responding to support the Senator, were 5th Ward Alderman Barbara Holt and Service Employees Union President, Betty Willhoite. "Whose Birthday is this..."

While some maintain that the story of the birth of Jesus Christ is merely a beautiful tale. Many of us grew up believing in the Son of God, Jesus Christ and enhancing him as the son of the first Black parents born on December 25th, for some reason only the love of money would know.

Every year it seems Jesus's story is buried deeper as Santa Claus and his team composed of media, corporations and shows grows larger than life. What are you getting for Christmas? This year as you and your family gather to rejoice in the spirit of the day, enhance it with a greeting of "Happy Kwanzaa". This may be the only way to respond to the paradigm to a healthy, spiritual state.

The idea behind Jesus's birth symbolizes the wonderful opportunity for a second chance. Many great thoughts have been born in hostile conditions. The simple setting described in the Bible is a far cry from the computerized, electronic buy me, buy me mentality. As the Mid-South community strives to claim a stake in its own community, Kwanzaa lends itself perfectly to these concepts first presented to us in the story of the birth of Christ. From the issues that we work on, to the goals that we cry for as a people, jobs, businesses in our own community, the unity of political representation, working together and being responsible for our sister's advancement. Let's think about that situation.

Dr. Maulana Karenga, the creator of Kwanzaa and the author of the Million Man March mission statement, is the creator of the Holiday.

The nave-notes section has not occurred during the year businesses really cut prices on the original price. It's been redesigned and inflated. But here in the United States it's simply a prime example which you can year round. The idea behind Jesus' birth symbolizes the wonderful opportunity for a second chance. Tutashinda (Together, we will win). The South Street Journal should address.

The tragic thing is that each year we witness Christmas being turned into a shopping event. It amazes how once or twice a year people in groups get together to pass on two, one for Thanksgiving and one for Christmas. Let's think about the importance of Jesus' birth to these people, for jobs, businesses in our own community, the unity of political representation, working together and being responsible for our sister's advancement. Let's think about that situation. Celebrating Kwanzaa in no way prevents us from observing the Christmas holidays. It only gives us an anchor to knowledge of where we are today. In doing this we not only build the strength of our families but we open the way for our successes as a people. In this way we develop a vision of our community as a whole.

Kwanzaa means "First". The tradition is celebrating the harvest of the first crop of the year. The South Street Journal should address.

The Mid-South communities can certainly reflect upon the injustices made to our people. The world knows about the Million Man March because it took place in the midst of the deadliest war in the history of the world. And the people of the United States and the rest of the world are still in awe.

Create a symbol or logo for the Million Man March Corporation. License the use copyrighted logos, and acknowledge any convention, business, products or publications which identify with the march.

The Million Man March Corp. is a clearing house to authenticate community events such as Kwanzas and the Million Man March, so they are not corrupted by unscrupulous agents within and outside the community.

If an event or a product such as an insurance policy does not have the licensed, registered logo, it will be recognized as authentic, and not in the best interest of the community.

Portions of the licensing fees could be used to start up community institutions such as think tanks, etc.

The IOM plan being developed should have the logo of the "Million Man March Corporation" before it is offered to the community.

Someday with the City Daily Newspaper should be the logo of the Million Man March Corp.

The plan of political convention now in the planning stage should be held in Washington, D.C. as in the spirit of the Million Man March.

I cannot imagine giving up the success of the Million Man March, the still bearing images of almost two million participants in the capital and the focus point of the world, to ask all eyes to forget and turn the camera to Atlanta or some other point.

In your wisdom, you knew that even if the march did not succeed in the numerical million men, it was a win win situation for us to assemble in unity, in the front yard of the government of the United States.

At the convention in Washington, D.C., the banners, flags, buttons, kites, hats, whirlies and balloons should carry the logo of the Million Man March Corporation. And they should be protected from community based licenced to put the logo on their products.

Very thank you for your kind consideration of the above suggestions.

George Lowe
Lake Meadows

To the Honorable Minister Louis Farrakhan

Dear Minister Farrakhan,

I am deeply disturbed by the following development in the aftermath of the Million Man March.

Many spokespersons for the march, and many others who should know better, have unthinkingly begun spreading propaganda because we have not been successful at the local level in stopping the destruction of our community.

As a participant, along with almost two million other, we did not come to the capital to ride a white horse chased by a red dog, party hardly, boogie down and electric slide to snoop dogg dog.

We did not come wearing earrings and buggy pants, carrying patent leather purses, and gold chains around our necks.

We heard your call, and came to march, because we have not been successful at the local level in stopping the destruction of our communities by imported guns, heroin and crack cocaine.

So as individuals working in our local communities, we are not successful in convincing our youth to "Just say no", don't engage in early sex and stop the killing, etc.

If we had been successful in all these things, there would not have been a need for any of us to ask your call for action, your call for us to come together; and in unity fight, this undeclared war, being waged against us.

In the spirit of the Million Man March, I am asking you to consider using the Million Man March Corporation as the institution to keep the fires of unity by the man, by the man, by the public, etc.

Washington, D.C. and the national headquarters of the Million Man March Corporation.

Sincerely,

Eddie Vincent Walker.
New Coalition Offers A Christian Voice Different From The Christian Right

A new organization Protestants for the Common Good launched a campaign on December 3 designed to get Protestant lay and clergy leaders more actively involved in the political arena. Declaring they are "committed by faith to justice for all," leaders of the new coalition have stated their determination "to provide a voice different from that of the Religious Right.

A new organization is strictly nonpartisan. We do not believe that adherence to the faith can be identified with any particular political party or agenda," Winkler said that Protestants for the Common Good expect to work with other ecumenical and interfaith coalitions that share its commitment to "justice for all."

The keynote speaker was Cornel West, professor of religious ethics and former dean of the University of Chicago, and by poll-driven political our distressed by the lack of civility in blowing in the wind."

The Reverend Eugene Winkler, host of the December 3 event, stressed that the new organization is "strictly nonpartisan. We do not believe that adherence to the faith can be identified with any particular political party or agenda."

WordSongs Ends Oral Anthology Series with Dr. Margaret Burroughs

The Mystery. The Magic & The Madness of 47th Street was the theme of a three part series of poetry readings held at Gerri’s Palm Tavern, 446 E. 47th Street. The literary initiative, WordSongs was launched in August at the South Street Journal newspaper. The series was designed to encourage an elevation of consciousness, continuity and commitment among community residents, activists and artists. WordSongs chose the Palm Tavern because of Gerri Oliver’s long standing ties to the literary, political and social pulse of the Black Metropolis. The three-part series has featured local talent as well as internationally known poets such as Dr. Margaret Burroughs and Gwendolyn Brooks. Elected officials and community activists have shared the stage during these events. 3rd Ward Alderman Dorothy Tillman (candidate for the 7th Congressional District), Publisher Row Carter and Executive Director of Black Metropolis Tourism & Convention Inc Harold Lucas have participated in ensuring the success of these events. “We believe the power of the spoken word can set the stage for the healing that must take place in our community.” says WordSongs founder Beverly A. Reed.

NUGATION. "Demonstration." said Jackson, describing the picketing of an Arab store as "simply because it is in our neighborhood is justifiable." He stated, "we want our products on their shelves." "Reconciliation: Okay, now we're friends again" the quote used to describe this aspect of the five step plan Jackson called for the formation of committees to enact in detail plans of the group. Among those selected were: Hermene Hartman, Indigo and Bill Garch, Carter's publications. As many prominent businessmen were in attendance Clark of Reggae's Pizza, warmly received by the audience described the inability of his million dollar frozen pizza business to compete with the major players in the industry. With pen and checkbook in hand, Clark welcomed Jackson back and announced his commitment to seeing the division's strategic plan carried out.

The company's past experiences in strategic planning and public relations developed the BMC&TC's present relationship with the Sadler/Davis Group, a national public relations firm.

Both companies are African American owned and committed to the project. We have identified three "Tourism Events" scheduled for Chicago in the summertime of 1995:
- The Black Congress on Health, Law & Economics, specifically, BMC&TC comprises the Black Congress on Health, Law & Economics. The BMC&TC has retained the services of BR&R Communications to enhance the BMC&TC's presentation of ideas to the representatives of the Black Congress, which is scheduled for Chicago in June 1995. The Black Congress will be a significant role in the development of African American tourism worldwide. The theme of the Black Congress is "The Black Congress' ten year observance in Chicago," a statement of the Black Congress's commitment to a variety of activities, from entertainment, to education, to the revitalization of Bronzeville, the BMC&TC hopes to entertain, educate, and serve the Black Congress in Chicago. The Black Congress' ten year observance comes at a time when critical issues confront African Americans and people of color worldwide. The needs, thoughts, and direction established by the Black Congress will play a significant role in leading African Americans into the 21st Century.

At the planning meeting held December 8th, in Chicago, the BMC&TC presented our capabilities and ideas to the representatives of the Black Congress on Health, Law & Economics. Specifically, BMC&TC presented the steering committee with ideas and concepts for public relations, events, tours, gala celebrations and inter-conference communications.
